¹ Agreements reached and complaints withdrawn by complainants. A complaint may be withdrawn for several reasons. The most common reason for withdrawing a complaint is that the complainant feels that he or she has received sufficient explanations.

The increase observed in 2025 was mainly due to new regulatory requirements that came into effect, particularly with regard to processing times and escalation of complaint situations requiring a written response. This change reflects an adjustment to the regulatory and operational framework.

The decrease in the resolution percentage is due to proactive handling of dissatisfaction situations by the business sectors, which allows for the resolution of a number of situations from the beginning of contact.
